OIG Self-Disclosures

• What is the OIG Self-Disclosure Protocol?
  – Created 1998, Updated 2013
  – Receive about 100 submissions a year
  – What = potential violations of federal criminal, civil, or administrative law for which CMPs are authorized
  – Not admitting liability

OIG Self-Disclosures: Benefits

There are significant advantages to disclosing potential fraud
OIG Self-Disclosures: Benefits

One Two Three Four

OIG Self-Disclosures: Benefits (1)

Good faith disclosure and cooperation generally indicates a robust and effective compliance program.

Disclosure creates a presumption against exclusion

SDP cases usually end up with releases of OIG’s exclusion authority
OIG Self-Disclosures: Benefits (2)

Lower Multiplier

Disclosing parties deserve to pay a lower multiplier on single damages than they would in a government initiated investigation.

General Practice: minimum of 1.5 time singles damages

Suspended Overpayment Obligations

SDP mitigates potential exposure under the 60 day rule.
OIG Self-Disclosures: Benefits

Quick Resolution

Specific and Detailed Process

Goal of 12 months or less (usually faster)

Initial investigation to Damage calculation: 90 Days

---

What is proper for the SDP and what should be disclosed to another authority
OIG Self-Disclosures: Eligibility

WHO: Who may disclose?

All health care providers, suppliers, or individuals or entities who are subject to OIG’s CMPs.

Not limited to any particular industry, medical specialty, or service

WHAT: What conduct is eligible?

WHAT NOT: What conduct is ineligible?

WHEN-ISH: The tolling of the statute of limitations

WHY: Corrective action
WHAT: What conduct is eligible?

Any conduct that potentially violates Federal criminal, civil, or administrative laws for which OIG has CMPs.

WHAT NOT: What conduct is ineligible?

1. Any conduct that does not potentially violates Federal criminal, civil, or administrative laws for which OIG has CMPs.
2. Advisory Opinion type questions: whether an actual or potential violation has occurred
   3. Stark only conduct.
OIG Self-Disclosures: Eligibility

WHEN-ISH: The tolling of the statute of limitations

Suspended Overpayment Obligations

Disclosing Parties agree to waive and not plead statute of limitations, laches, or similar defenses to administrative actions

OIG Self-Disclosures: Eligibility

WHY: corrective action

Ensure conduct has ended
(or within 90 days for an improper kickback arrangement)

Taken any other necessary corrective action
OIG Self-Disclosures: Requirements

Internal investigation and findings (if incomplete, certify it will be within 90)

Laws that are potentially violated by the disclosed conduct

Federal health care programs affected by the disclosed conduct

Estimate of the damages

Corrective action

False Billing Requirements/Damages

A review of either:
1) all claims submitted or;
2) statistically valid random sample
(at least 100 items)
Employment of Excluded Individual Requirements

Identity, provider number
Job duties
Dates of employment/contracting
Background checks (before, during, after)
Employee screening
How it was discovered
Corrective action

Employment of Excluded Individual Damages

Direct provider vs. Indirect provider

Non-separately billable items or services

Total employment costs x FHCP payor mix
OIG Self-Disclosures: Requirements

Kickback and Stark violation Requirements

statement and analysis of each arrangement

Examples: FMV assessment, timing of payments, commercial reasonableness, payment for services not performed, whether payment took into account volume or value of referrals

Kickback and Stark violation Damages

Affected claims

Amount of improper remuneration
OIG Self-Disclosures: Resolution

Cooperation is key to achieving the benefits of disclosure

- conducting a thorough investigation
- submitting all necessary information
- communicating through a consistent point of contact
- responding to OIG requests for additional information
- being willing to pay a penalty or multiplier

OIG Self-Disclosures: Resolution

Coordination with DOJ

Civil and Criminal conduct
OIG Self-Disclosures: Resolution

Coordination with CMS

Stark Only Conduct and the Self-Referral Disclosure Protocol

Reconciliation: Minimum settlement amounts

While OIG does not demand an admission of liability in settlement agreements, disclosing parties should expect to pay above single damages for disclosed conduct that potentially violates Federal law.

1.5 x minimum multiplier
$10,000 min for false billing and $50,000 min for AKS
Prior refunds will be credited to the ultimate settlement amount.

OIG will review the methodology for the prior overpayment.

Still expect to pay multiplier on the damages.
